

DEC Connection

About Digital

Reminiscing and Ruminating...

Most humorous, nsightful, or otherwise eye catching poster in a DEC Office

<< previous next >>

Pages: [1] GO DOWN

REPLY NOTIFY MARK UNREAD SEND TOPIC PRINT

Author

Topic: Most humorous, nsightful, or otherwise eye catching poster in a DEC Office (Read 685 times)

SEHarker

Newbie Posts: 17

Most humorous, nsightful, or otherwise eye catching poster in a DEC Office

<< on: November 15, 2007, 03:05:33 PM >>

QUOTE MODIFY DELETE SPLIT

As inane as this topic might seem, there was actually a form of sub-culture that seemed to exist in the late Seventies and early Eighties around Digital office wall hangings. They served several purposes, of sorts, either to calm the office's occupant, or as an expression of his or her feelings (or opinions), or as an ice-breaker to be used in opening discussions. Many were humorous – such as the picture of a certain doomed but defiant mouse extending a specific digit at an Eagle bent on his destruction, or thoughtful, such as a poster with an acid rock flavor containing a printed copy of Max Ehrmann's "Desiderata". ("Go placidly amid the noise and haste"), to name only two.

Whatever may have struck a chord – or your funny bone, I hope you will share it, here.

Report to moderator 66.189.36.56 (?)

will emerson

Underwriting Technical Assistant Jr. Member Posts: 90

Re: Most humorous, nsightful, or otherwise eye catching poster in a DEC Office

<< Reply #1 on: November 15, 2007, 05:31:26 PM >>

QUOTE MODIFY DELETE SPLIT

One I remember from PKO1 had "Sylvester the Cat" asking "Would you mind very much if I asked you to take your silly little problem down the hall?"..

Cet espace à louer - This space for rent

Another one had words to the effect of: "I'll be glad to help you with your problem, however at no time does your problem become MY problem".

Report to moderator 207.195.245.131 (?)

In fond memory Kenneth Henry Chan 23 Feb 1928 - 08 Feb 2011

Paul Donaldson

Newbie

Posts: 7

Re: Most humorous, nsightful, or otherwise eye catching poster in a DEC Office

« Reply #2 on: September 22, 2008, 09:57:01 AM »

These from MKO come to mind:

"Be aware: Failure to pre-plan on your part does not constitute an emergency on my part."

"Not matter how many 'Atta-Boys' you get, it takes just ONE 'Ah, ST' to wipe them all out."

Dick Edwards had a neat poster with a Garfield-like character shown in a euphoric state saying:
"I live for weekends in Milford, New Hampshire!" On second thought, I guess you had to see it and know Dick to appreciate that one!

Have a day. Paul

Report to moderator 64.140.232.202 (?)

rmorrison

Newbie

Posts: 4

Re: Most humorous, nsightful, or otherwise eye catching poster in a DEC Office

« Reply #3 on: March 22, 2009, 10:53:24 AM »

When I worked at LKG in 1991-92, there was someone there named Dick Tracy who had a cubicle in a very prominent location. He had a Dick Tracy poster on the outside of his cube.

Report to moderator 24.61.110.13 (?)

Pages: [1]

« previous next »

Jump to: => Reminiscing and Ruminating...

go

